Assume that you have $100 to pay the group members who have participated in your group project.

On the basis of each member's overall contribution over the entire project, please allocate this money among the members. The allocation should be based on quality of ideas contributed, work done, time invested in the project, group participation and collaboration, and personal commitment and effort. Make sure to rate your own contribution as well.

Please explain why you allocated the above funds the way you did:

The reason I allocated the funds equally among all members is because throughout the course, each member put in a consistent effort for each assignment including the presentation. There was never a point where I felt someone was doing more than the others and all of us on average did an equal amount of work. Each member had interesting ideas to share and group discussions were very effective ^{and positive}. We delegated tasks efficiently and I was happy with the way we conducted ourselves and helped each other out. Each team member was on the constant lookout to improve and were willing to go the extra mile to make the best possible version of the final prototype. Communication was consistent throughout the semester and overall a great team experience. I would definitely want to work with this group again in the future!
